Description

  - Currently, if the system is taken offline due to maintenance work, the index.html is moved to point to temporarily_not_available.html instead of welcome.html - If someone knows any of the direct CGI script call, he/she still might be able to use the system.
  - In a future version, all front-end scripts must check if the system is online or offline and return the temporarily_not_available.html page in the latter case.
